Dry Verge System

Dry verge roofing makes use of interlocking caps that fit over the edge of your roof tiles, and offers an effective and more importantly, durable alternative to normal verges.
You don't have to worry about your roof leaking.

Roof vents provide adequate ventilation as it is essential for tight fitting roof coverings such as fibre cement slates, even if you're using a breathable underlay.
Convenience is often cited as one of the many reasons for the popularity of breathable underlays.
